FAILED TO FIX A DAY.

Silver Senators Refuse to Agree to Any Limitation of Debate.

NAMED BY THE PRESIDENT.

W. H. Hornblower of New York to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. James Van Allen For Ambassador to China.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—In the senate a debate on the proposal bill was given notice by Mr. Sumner (Rep. Wash.). It permits the deposit of silver bullion by its owners and the coinage thereof into standard silver dollars, of which he is to receive only the amount corresponding to its commercial value. The amount is not to exceed 4,000,000 ounces a month, or 200,000,000 in all. The dollars are to be legal tender and no certificates are to be issued. Mr. Voorhes defended himself from adverse criticism in the management of the repeal bill, by showing the impossibility under the rules of making greater haste. He again asked that a day be fixed for a final vote.

Mr. Dubois (Rep. Ida.), as a representative of the silver men, objected in a bitter speech, defining Mr. Voorhes as a traitor. In reply Mr. Voorhes said there was no use of talking of closure, as the decision of that proposition would take up all the time of this and the next congress. He therefore gave notice that tomorrow he would ask the senate to remain in session longer, perhaps at night. Turning to Mr. Voorhes, Mr. Hoar referred to the force bill and uttered what was to be taken a threat. Mr. Hoar called it a bill to provide for and permit the majority to rule.

Mr. Platt gave notice of a closure resolution which he had read at the clerk's desk. Mr. Teller said if the senator in charge of the bill would consult him he would give a list of 15 senators who intended to speak, a portion of whom had not opened their mouths. The senator from Indiana could not say that this was an inconsequential matter, for he was on record against that and had said in the past that the protection of silver was more important than anything before the senate. If he wanted night sessions Mr. Teller warned him that the friends of repeal must be present too. Friends of silver were neither frightened nor moved by the public opinion quoted by Mr. Voorhes, because the rule of the country—not aggregated capital or sectional bias—was opposed to the repeal of the Sherman act. If public opinion was against this or any other question, senators should be guided by their own judgment.

Mr. Teller said he had also opposed the force bill and in his judgment if the opponents of that bill had absolutely thrilled all other legislation, even appropriation bills, they would have been justified. The pending bill he considered more dangerous to the rights of the people than the force bill, for that was simply a political measure while this struck at our system of finance. This was a more important matter than any presented to the people since the war. Reconstruction and all that attended it were inconsequential in comparison. The senator from Indiana would never be able to get a day fixed for the vote. It would only be taken after the debate was ended, and holding night sessions would not improve the condition of the bill. After a few remarks by Mr. Stewart, Mr. Mills took the floor on the silver bill.

In the house objection was made to the resolution made by Mr. Flinn, calling on the secretary of war for information regarding the sending of soldiers in the Cherokee Strip by the soldiers. The house resumed the fight over the federal election bill and the yeas and nays were ordered on Mr. Burrows' old motion to dispense with four of the committees. The Democrats raised the point of no quorum, there being 75, but a miss is as good as a mile and the filibustering continued.

On Mr. Burrows' motion to reconsider the vote, the house decided to suspend further proceedings, and the bill was laid on the table. The house then, at 2:45, adjourned.

The Tariff Hearings. WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—A. H. Gallagher of New York opened the hearings before the ways and means committee by presenting the petitions of the Associated Trades and Workers' Reform league of New York, demanding that the duties on vegetable products of the Bermuda islands be removed or greatly reduced so that the middle class and working people may be able to purchase and use the fresh vegetables, which are necessary for their health in the early spring. Henry T. Oxnard of Nebraska spoke next against the repeal of the sugar bounty clause of the McKinley bill. Congress had no right, he said, to repeal this section; the time should continue to be fixed and appropriations had been authorized to pay the bounty.

Two Important Nominations. WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The president sent the following nominations to the senate: W. N. Hornblower of New York, to be associate justice of the supreme court, vice Samuel Blatchford, deceased; James Van Allen of Rhode Island, to be ambassador extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to China.

The trunk the money was put in belonged to Jack Sheller, but as she was in custody it could not be shipped in her name and it was consigned to Cannon at Marquette. La Liberte left on the same train with the trunk. He opened it at Marquette and carried the money to Shea's saloon, where a goodly portion of it was discovered. REINTEMENT OF THE POLKS.

Last Meeting Place of a President Chosen to the Capital Grounds.

Nebraska's Governor has no sympathy with the spirit of the organization. Its object he declares not only silly but vicious. LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 19.—When the Pan-American Bimetallic association some weeks ago arranged for a convention at St. Louis circulars were sent to Governor Crouse of Nebraska, requesting him to send delegates from Nebraska to the meeting. The governor, in a letter to the secretary, refuses emphatically to appoint delegates and replies to the invitation in the following style: EXECUTIVE MANSION, LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 18. Mr. Olney Newell, Denver, Colo.: DEAR SIR:—Some time ago I received a letter from you transmitting a circular purporting to be issued by the Pan-American Bimetallic association, calling a convention of representatives of the southern states, certain named western states, Old Mexico and all the countries of South America, to convene at St. Louis on Oct. 3 next, and inviting me to name representatives from Nebraska. I have also your letter of more recent date expressing an anxiety that the state should be represented there and asking me if it is my purpose to appoint such delegates. In reply I have to advise you that I shall appoint none, nor do anything to put this state in the attitude of seeking sympathy with the spirit disclosed by the call, and which is likely to possess the convention. The call not only excludes many of the states from participating in the consideration of questions which concern all alike, but its arraignment of certain ones among them, as engaged in a conspiracy against the southwest, as well as the further proposition to institute a sectional boycott against them, is, in my judgment, both silly and vicious. The national procession started from Polk place at 11 o'clock and was accompanied by officials representing the city and state. Arriving at the capital grounds, Rev. Jerry Witherspoon, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, delivered a discourse and after other exercises the bodies were placed in the tomb and the benediction pronounced.
